An afficiency wage system as a substitute for the bonus plan will be included in the engineers' counter proposition, according to Thomas B. Healy, Chairman of the Atlantic and Gulf Coast District.

The union men are not inclined to "open shop." They regard the proposals of shipowners in this respect as part of a national plan of employers to "break" union labor, and it is indicated that a bitter fight will be waged to prevent the fruition of the "open shop" hopes on the part of the

MRS. J. A. STILLMAN SAYS: "JIMMY WILL STAY DOWN; I WILL COME UP AFTER TRIAL"

"This Has Become a Test of Strength," She Declares, "But I Am Not Afraid"-Will Fight for Open Hearings.

By Dale Van Every.

United Press Staff Correspondent. 66D OTH my husband and myself may go down in this amasa. But 'Jimmy' Stillman will stay down. When the truth is known He won't,"

This is Mrs. James A. Stillman's attitude toward her husband's divorce action, as she expressed it to the United Press shortly before Stillman resigned as President of the National City Bank-and it is still her attitude to-day.

"This has become a test of strength," she declared, "but I am not "One of us will always be able to go about among our friends, and to belong to the world. I know which one it will be, "When this fight is finished I will be able to hold up my head anywhere in the world.' At the time Mrs. Stillman made these statements she was making every effort to avoid publicit;, but the developments in last week's "secret" hearings-publication of letters alleged to have been written to her by Fred Beauvais and testimony of Dr. Hugh Russell of Buffalo that she had "confessed" to him two-year-old Guy Stillman was Beanvale's son-have wrought a great change in the situation.

Mrs. Stillman, it was learned to-day, is determined to renew her efforts to have the case thrown into open court, believing she now has everything to gain and nothing to lose by such publicity. She feels that the "secret" hearings place her at a disadvantage, because of "leaks" which put her in an unfavorable light.
